Develop independent research and homework skills 	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Read as many fiction and non-fiction books as possible. It's also a great idea to share reading with older family members. 2. Take some time to read magazine and newspaper articles and then practise your own articles on a topic which interests you. You could even challenge yourself by writing some letters or speeches. 3. When you have read or written something new, ask your family if you can share it with them. 4. Reflect on how you have managed to complete homework tasks at primary school. Remember that in Year 7, you will now have work from lots of different teachers. How will you make sure to keep in control of homework? 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • English Leaders • Creative Writing Club • LRC Leaders • Youth Speaks
